PRESIDENT'S ACTION

WASHINGTON March 23 —When the senate met today the reading of the journal was dispensed with and a message from Justice Miller announced the death of the chief justice of the supreme court Senator Edmunds rose and said

I suppose that on the 21st of January last Justice Waite received his commission as chief justice and took the oath of office and from that day forward he was never absent from his place except in times of great sickness and suffering with a career in that court embracing questions of the utmost importance to human rights both civil and political he was the chief and a conspicuous figure in the history of this nation and perhaps in respect of the whole world I need not say that for this life so full of these no words of mine can add anything to the fame of the chief justice I will not trust myself to say more than that I shall miss the chief justice from his place in the court and I know that I shall miss him from his place in the world

Senator Edmunds then offered the following resolutions

Resolved That the senate has heard with profound sorrow of the death of Chief Justice Waite of the supreme court of the United States which occurred this morning with feelings of deep and sincere sorrow

Resolved That while the nation mourns the loss of one of its most useful and illustrious sons it is fitting that the senate representing the people express its deepest sympathy with the family of the deceased in their affliction

Resolved That the senate will attend as a body the funeral of the late chief justice and the speaker is requested to appoint a committee consisting of nine members to act with a committee of the senate in any necessary action relating to the funeral

Collision of Passenger Trains

PITTSBURG March 23 —Two passenger trains on the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad collided forty miles from Pittsburg this morning and were badly wrecked One man was instantly killed and nine others seriously injured

particulars of the illness of Chief Justice Waite are obtained from Dr Caroline R Winslow who has been his family physician for the last thirteen years The immediate cause of his death the doctor said was nervous failure of the action of the heart and came with such startling suddenness as to be absolutely appalling There was not the vagueness of symptoms of heart complications throughout his sickness On Saturday night the chief justice had attended the theatre reception given by Senator and Mrs Hearst but feeling slightly indisposed he left their house early About half an hour after he arrived at home he was taken with a chill and immediately retired At 3 o'clock in the morning Dr Winslow was called and found the chief justice suffering with pain in the left side of his chest felt somewhat better and rested quite comfortably At this time he said to the physician in answer to inquiries that he might attend court on Monday but was cautioned to take no chances He persisted that he felt well enough to ride to the capitol and return on Monday After his return from the capitol the physician called and found him complaining of soreness in his right lung and when asked to take a long breath said that the effort caused him pain An examination showed that part of his right lung two or more inches in diameter was hepatized This was accompanied with a slight cough He was extremely restless as he had been from the first and his face was much flushed He was very wakeful during Monday night While his illness was by no means regarded as critical his physician on Tuesday suggested that his son be telegraphed for which was done The chief justice's condition remained much the same during Tuesday morning Later in the day symptoms of acute bronchitis appeared and on Wednesday symptoms of pneumonia made their appearance in his affected lung There was no material change during the day During the night of Wednesday and on Thursday he was quite comfortable no one feeling alarm though naturally anxious He was getting along well even on believed and when at ten o'clock last evening his physician left him he responded to her good night as cheerfully and in as strong a voice as he did in health The nurse who remained during the night observed no change in his condition not even in the expression of his face until 6 o'clock this morning when he turned over on his back and in ten minutes was dead At the beginning of his illness Chief Justice Waite, fearing to needlessly alarm his wife, who was on her way to California in company with an invalid sister cautioned those about him to keep his condition from the newspapers He was not alarmed himself and was unwilling that his wife's journey should be curtailed or interfered with by his slight indisposition

ESTIMATES OF HIS FRIENDS

WASHINGTON March 23 —The circumstances of Judge Waite's appointment and confirmation are still fresh in the public mind and formed a striking episode of the time President Grant had nominated successively Attorney General Williams and Caleb Cushing both of whom encountered much opposition and after a time their names were withdrawn and Mr Waite was nominated He had been an independent republican candidate for congress against one of Mr Sumner's warm personal friends and had incurred the enmity of Mr Sumner who for that time also entertained very friendly relations toward the Grant administration The proceedings of the senate though more than a dozen years have since elapsed are still covered by a veil of executive secrecy Yet it was well known that Sumner's speech in opposition to Mr Waite was one of the strongest efforts of that remarkable man's life He dwelt historically upon eminent services and attainments of the long line of incumbents of the office of chief justice and spoke in bitter terms of disparagement of Mr Waite's qualifications Sixty three senators were present and listened for two hours with respectful attention to the senator from Massachusetts No voice was raised in defense of the nominee Yet when the question of confirmation came to a vote 63 senators voted in the affirmative and Sumner did not vote at all How far astray Mr Waite's opponents were in their estimate of his character and attainments is strikingly displayed in the sentiments expressed by public men who have known him

Senator Vest says He was one of the best men I ever knew a most excellent lawyer and a very just man He possessed an eminently judicial mind and was peculiarly fitted for his position I knew him well and deeply deplore his death

Senator Pearce said I was greatly surprised as well as grieved to learn of the fatal result of his illness There is an universal agreement in personal admiration for the chief justice and grief at his loss His death will be regarded by the judiciary and the profession of the country as a great calamity

Senator Hawley said I am sharing in the general sorrow The people of Connecticut have their own reasons for an added grief The families of the late chief justice and his wife are among the oldest of our state He was born and educated there He was a jurist of sound learning and spotless character

Senator George said I think it a very great loss to the country I regarded him as a very able judge holding the scales very equally not only between suitors before his court but between sections of the union

Senator Coke said I hold him in the very highest esteem as an honorable pure and able jurist

Senator Blackburn said I entertained for him the kindliest personal sentiments I should very much regret to think any man in the country could give utterance to any other feelings or sentiments than those of profound regret and sorrow at his death for I think every man liked him just in proportion to the intimacy of his acquaintance with him

Senator Teller said He acquitted himself of his high responsibilities in a way which entitled him to the respect and confidence of all classes of people His death is a national loss

Edmunds, chairman of the judiciary committee and a warm personal friend of the late chief justice said My first acquaintance with Mr Waite was when he was named as one of the arbitrators about the year 1871 or 72 He came on to Washington practicing law of no national reputation but of fine state reputation a man of solid strength solid thought not ornamental law learning and of the highest personal honor and rectitude of character That everybody acknowledged In the course of the proceedings of the Geneva tribunal he had his first opportunity to show his great capacity for affairs and his understanding of the principles of international questions From President Grant's acquaintance with him on that occasion he came to have for him the highest respect and regard and so it was natural after his unfortunate efforts to find a suitable chief justice for the president to think of Waite The president suggested his name to several senators and all so far as I know of whom friendly inquiry was made immediately and gladly felt with the suggestion though it might have seemed from many of the lawyers and statesmen of the United States around the capitol that a different man for the great office was wanted little do we know the heart of the country So after his appointment he took the chief justice I have proof I am at liberty to say to your correspondent that he hesitated as to the propriety of his appointment because of his public bearing and conduct and to know a great deal of his relations with his associates as well as with the bar I can say with entire candor I did not think there ever was an instance in any time or country where the relations of a sitting magistrate with the bar or with his associates were more dignified and harmonious and at the same time perfectly friendly and cordial His opinions I think on broad questions of fundamental law and of the application of principles to the affairs of men will stand well with those of the most eminent judges in his professional and private life he was one of the most gentle cordial and approachable men I ever met and his kindness of heart was so great that in the midst of affairs and society here where he must have known so many instances of evil and impropriety I do not remember ever to have heard him make a censorious or unkind remark to any person in the world or to mention a circumstance or employ a witticism at the expense of another There is no word of criticism that can be said against him and there is everything to say for him in all respects that make up a just and upright judge honorable kindly and Christian citizen

Southern senators were particularly kindly in their expressions of regard for Justice Waite in all respects

PLANS FOR THE FUNERAL

WASHINGTON March 23 —It is the intention of members of the family to have the interment take place at Toledo the old residence of the chief justice unless Mrs Waite signifies a different desire In case the interment takes place there it is probable the remains will leave here on Wednesday or Thursday next for Ohio the purpose being to have Mrs Waite meet the funeral train at Toledo on her return from California

RESOLUTIONS BY THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON March 23 —When the house convened this morning on motion of Mattson of Indiana consideration of the Logan and Blair pension bills was postponed until Friday next

The speaker laid before the house a communication from Justice Miller of the supreme court announcing the death of the chief justice

E B Taylor of Ohio said It seems that the great office that was occupied yesterday by Mr Morrison R Waite is vacant to day It is second in dignity to none in the whole civilized world It has been occupied by him for many years with nobility and industry and a disposition to conscientiously discharge his whole duty in such a way that to day the whole nation is mourning for his decease This is not time for a eulogy nor in fact any time for extended remarks but for the purpose of exhibiting the fact that this house has respect for his memory I ask the clerk to read and the house adopt the following resolutions

Resolved That the house of representatives has heard of the death of Chief Justice Waite of the supreme court of the United States which occurred this morning with feelings of deep and sincere sorrow

Resolved That while the nation mourns the loss of one of its most useful and illustrious sons it is fitting that the house representing the people expresses its deepest sympathy with the family of the deceased in their affliction

Resolved That the house will attend as a body the funeral of the late chief justice and the speaker is requested to appoint a committee consisting of nine members to act with a committee of the senate in any necessary action relating to the funeral

Resolved That as an additional mark of respect to the memory of the deceased the house do now adjourn

The resolutions were unanimously adopted and the house at 12 15 o'clock adjourned until to morrow

The committee appointed by the speaker to represent the house is as follows Wm D Kelley of Pennsylvania G E Seney of Ohio Chas H Grosvenor of Ohio W C P Breckenridge of Kentucky John W Stewart of Vermont H B Carleton of Georgia Joseph G Cannon of Illinois S Anderson of Iowa and C A Russell of Connecticut

WEST AND SOUTH.

What the Panhandle Route Will Do for Both Sections

Interview with Mr G. McD Nathan, Western Freight Agent

Of the Texas and Pacific Railway, Who is in the City.

Freight Rates to the East and South Greatly Reduced

The people of Colorado have greater expectations of what the operations of the great Panhandle route will do towards building up and maintaining the industries and commercial interests of the state than present appearances these expectations will be realized for the Texas and Pacific and the Denver Texas and Gulf railroads have adopted a very liberal policy in the operation of their lines A connection was made between these two roads a few days ago and they will soon be opened for regular freight and passenger travel

Mr G McD Nathan the western freight agent of the Texas & Pacific railroad was in the city yesterday in the interests of the road and was found last evening by a representative of the Gazette Mr Nathan cheerfully responded to a request for an interview concerning the benefits to be derived by the citizens of Colorado and particularly by the merchants of Colorado Springs from the great Panhandle route

The first thing said Mr Nathan which we will give your merchants is reduced freight rates to New Orleans and New York Here are the rates to Denver and Colorado Springs from New Orleans

	Per Cwt
First class	$1 90
Second class	1 46
Third class	1 34
Fourth class	1 12
Class A	90
Class B	80
Class C	70
Class D	60
Class E	50
Oranges and lemons in car load lots	[illegible]
Sugar in car load lots	1 10

These rates are subject to the joint Texas classification which is much more favorable to dealers in general merchandise than the classification heretofore used and now in use by other lines It enables merchants to mix cars at car load rates with various and analogous freights Tropical fruits in less than car load lots come under first class freight On these the freight must be prepaid Fruits in car load lots on which the freight must be prepaid or guaranteed come under class 4

The rates on freight shipped from New York and consigned to either Denver or Colorado Springs are as follows

	Per Cwt.
First class	$2 24
Second class	1 81
Third class	1 70
Fourth class	1 48
Class A	1 30
Class B	1 18
Class C	95
Class D	90
Class E	80
Sugar in car lots 4 class	1 10
Coffee in sacks any quantity	2 02

This freight is shipped from New York to New Orleans by water thence by the Texas & Pacific to Fort Worth and thence by the Denver Texas and Gulf railroad to its destination All goods shipped from New York are covered by insurance furnished by the transportation company between New York and New Orleans Merchants shipping goods by this route should ship them by the Cromwell steamship from New York to New Orleans thence by the Texas and Pacific railroad, to Fort Worth and thence by the Panhandle route to destination The order should be given particularly in this way to secure the above named rates

The joint operation of the lines of railroad will Mr Nathan will open a direct line to this state from New Orleans for all kinds of green fruit coffee sugar, molasses and other products of the south It is expected that freight shipped from New Orleans to Colorado points will not occupy more than five days in transit and freight from New York will reach the city about ten and one half or eleven and one half days after shipment All goods from New Orleans should be shipped by the Texas and Pacific railway to Fort Worth and by the Panhandle route from there

On the line of the Texas and Pacific railway in the eastern part of Texas there is an unlimited quantity of short leafed pine lumber and along the line in Louisiana there is an abundant supply of long leafed pine and cypress from which shingles and finishings are made All of which is superior to the California red wood and can be laid down at Colorado Springs much cheaper It would pay Colorado Springs lumber dealers said Mr Nathan to investigate the prices of this Texas lumber Full information regarding rates shipping points etc. can be obtained by addressing W W Finley general freight agent of the Texas and Pacific railroad at Dallas Texas or G McD Nathan at No 318 Chestnut street St Louis

The line of the Texas and Pacific railway is 1100 miles long and there is no reason why the people who reside along it could not get their supply of potatoes flour etc from this state

Regarding the rates on wool to the eastern markets Mr Nathan said that as soon as the road is permanently opened for business definite rates will be made on wool to the east It is presumed that the same liberal policy will prevail on east bound freights that has been adopted regarding west bound shipments

This route will give to the people of this state an opportunity to purchase the cotton factory goods and iron products of Georgia and Alabama and they can ship them at very low rates to Colorado points

The officials of both railroads look for heavy passenger travel to and from the south They predict that many southern people will visit Colorado annually and that a great amount of northern capital will soon be employed in developing the resources of the Centennial state The Panhandle route will be of incalculable benefit to the commercial interests of Texas and the Long and Lone drives to northern shipping points will be in a great measure done away with

There are now three great railroad feeders to and from the south The Denver and Rio Grande gives her connection with the middle and New England states The Ohio and Mississippi gives her an outlet to the great central and Pacific states and the Panhandle route places her with in easy communication of the west

That the west and particularly Colorado will be benefitted by this direct communication there can be no question and our local merchants will doubtless improve the opportunity thus presented for extending and increasing their volume of trade

Carlisle on the Tariff

WASHINGTON March 23 —The views of Speaker Carlisle on certain features of the tariff bill have been so often misrepresented that the speaker yesterday undertook to enlighten the public in a communication to the press He said he was opposed to the repeal of the duties on sugar and believed there should be a moderate and reasonable reduction of those duties as in the case of many other articles subject to tax under the customs laws He regarded the duties on sugar as almost entirely a revenue tax and believed it was one of the duties that should be continued for that reason Carlisle said that when the question came up in the house it would be found that revenue reformers were the best friends of the sugar interest and that the high protectionists would advocate and vote for much greater reduction than any proposed in the Mills bill or even contemplated by the majority of the committee of ways and means The contest will be between revenue reformers on one side, contending for moderate reduction only, with a proper classification and the representatives of other protected interests who want the greater part of the reduction in the revenue to be taken off sugar to have and perhaps whiskey Carlisle said, further, I have never expressed nor intimated a doubt as to the propriety of placing wool on the free list It is the first necessary step toward securing cheaper clothing for the people and at the same time enabling your manufacturers of woolen goods to compete successfully with their foreign rivals and I regard it as one of the most important provisions contained in the bill to be reported from the committee on ways and means

Wilfrid Blunt's Charges

LONDON, March 23 —Wilfrid Blunt has written a letter to the Times, recounting in detail the date and hour and words that passed between himself and Balfour chief secretary for Ireland when the latter said that the home rule movement was supported by half a dozen men whom he named and would collapse if as he expected they through fear fled the country If they were imprisoned he said, they would get such severe hard labor that those without strong health would be unable to bear it Balfour said he was sorry for Dillon as there was some good about him but he would get six months hard labor and as he was in bad health the punishment would kill him Blunt says he understood the chief secretary's words to be intended somewhat as a warning to the Parnellites He again challenges Balfour to say whether his statement is correct and declares that if he again denies the language attributed to him he will bring testimony to corroborate it

The Kentucky Treasury

FRANKFORT Ky March 23 —This morning the two houses of the legislature suspended the rules and passed a resolution agreed upon at the democratic caucus calling for immediate and full investigation of all state offices At a secret caucus of the democratic members of the two houses a resolution was adopted directing a committee to call upon Gov Buckner and ask of him that he stop Auditor Hewitt from taking further part in the investigation of Treasurer Tate's affairs and the status of the state treasury This was done and the governor promised the committee that the auditor should be kept from the treasurer's office There was no hesitation on the part of the assembled legislators in declaring that Auditor Hewitt's action has impeded the investigation of Treasurer Tate's accounts and some went so far as to implicate the auditor in the defalcation It was the almost unanimous opinion of the caucus that the investigation will develop more rottenness than has yet seen the light

A Sad Case

AUBURN, N Y March 23 Dr F M Hamlin a prominent physician has been removed to an asylum at Utica a victim to the morphine and cocaine habit He was an expert microscopist and a year ago was commissioned by the British government to go to the Bermudas and investigate causes of onion blight He made an exhaustive report For several years he has made a study of the morphine habit and has made a specialty of treating patients addicted to it and in this way surrendered to the habit himself Two years ago he was president of the Young Men's Christian association

He Wants Blaine

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio March 23 —At a meeting of the campaign committee of the Buckeye club to night a letter from Judge William H West who presented Blaine's name to the Chicago convention in 1884 was read in which he says in part My fixed and unalterable conviction is that Blaine ought to accept the nomination for the reason that I believe he can carry more electoral votes than any other candidate With 153 southern electoral votes against us our margin is too small for the indulgence of state pride or favoritism We must nominate a man who can win

Flood Damage

CANOJOHARIE, N Y March 23 —The cold wave materially reduced the rush of water to the Mohawk river and prevent any more immediate damage Trains are running very irregularly on the Central road The West shore bridge over Schoharie creek will not be fully repaired in several weeks Only one train on this division is running Eight wooden arches of the immense aqueduct of the Erie canal at Fort Hunter have been carried away

Pardoned from Canon

DENVER March 23 —Governor Adams at the request of a number of prominent citizens of the state pardoned Thomas Kerwin out of the penitentiary Kerwin is 71 years old and very infirm He was sentenced in 1877 for life for stabbing and killing a companion during a drunken spree at Georgetown

The Denver News of Wednesday morning contained the following notice of M Musin, the celebrated violinist, who appeared in Denver on Tuesday evening "The audience was enthusiastic in its appreciation of M Musin's work, and the applause continued for several minutes. M Musin's playing is characterized by a freedom and grace of action that is not equalled by any other living artist He plays violin music as the unwritten anthem of the woods is murmured by the wind in the trees. There is no effort to his work His bow auto simply sweeps before him as a great orator adds his gestures His handling of the instrument is as graceful as a minuet without the attendant restraint Ole Bull Wilhelmj or Remenyi never played the violin with the grace and expression of Musin His own music is as clever and exquisitely beautiful as his playing He is a great artist, and should he come again will be given a reception worthy of his rank' Mr Musin and his select company appear in the opera house next Monday evening Reserved seats will be placed on sale at Bell's drug store to morrow morning Popular prices of admission will prevail

THE AFFLICTIONS OF THE EMPEROR AND CROWN PRINCESS

Many Indictments — A Richer Harvest than Russian Bullets and Knouts — Writings of Arndt — William Marching for the Fifth Prize Fight —

HIS domestic troubles of the late emperor of Germany in his later years were not equal to any of the pleasantest incidents of his early career, which he passed from a child under the tender care of his mother with her adoring love, and later he cherished an absorbing love

It is probable that this was instinctive in his mind was always reminded of the work he had before him in establishing the power of a united Germany and in filling the immense states with Prussian officers. The early years of his life were spent in the school of his father, who was a man of the rigid discipline of the Prussian school, and he was taught to look upon his father as a model of all that was noble and honorable. The boy was taught to look upon his father as a model of all that was noble and honorable. The boy was taught to look upon his father as a model of all that was noble and honorable. The boy

There has been a good deal of misinformation given on the subject of the mileage system We hope to publish on Monday a clear statement from Senator Reid, and we trust that this statement will be candidly considered by all earnest men.

For all purposes except the voting of bonds for water, school purposes, the tax list [illegible] at the time of the registration While the coming city [illegible] is the only time this year [illegible] vote on bonds for the sewerage [illegible] the vote on water bonds at [illegible] of the new [illegible] to make the tax on property of any [illegible] (has submit to the people a proposition to vote bonds to pay the expense.

A few high protectionists are complaining the Randall tariff bill as against the Morrison tariff bill proposed by the democratic members of the committee on ways and means The Randall bill reduces taxation by striking the entire tax off of tobacco and a part of the tax on whisky. We cannot understand how this takes money from the people. Certainly the republicans cannot afford to endorse a measure of this character. The more we save from whisky and tobacco the better we are off. If Mr. Randall had put a tax in the place of whisky and tobacco, his measure would have been a good one

Morrison R. Waite, chief justice of the supreme court of the United States, whose death is announced this morning, was born at Lyme, Conn November 29, 1816 He graduated at Yale college in the same class with William M Evarts, studied law with his father, then a judge of the supreme court of errors, settled at Maumee City, Ohio, and was elected to the Ohio legislature in 1849 In 1850 he removed to Toledo and took a prominent place at the Ohio bar, declined repeated nominations to congress and a seat in the supreme court of Ohio In 1871 he was appointed counsel to advocate the interests and rights of Americans before the tribunal of arbitration at Geneva, and became chief justice on March 4, 1874

The saddest result of the Burlington strike is that a good many of the sixteen hundred engineers and firemen have built homes along the line of the road They will now have to give up these homes and move elsewhere sacrificing in many instances, a good deal to get rid of their property This was the case of the Denver & Rio Grande strikers of 1882 In many cases, they could not get for their homes above what they were owing on the houses The strike, however, from another point of view was a great victory for the laboring men It established the principle that all men doing the same character of work should not receive the same pay but that discrimination should be made in favor of greater responsibility, experience and efficiency This principle is established in all other departments of labor The editor of a city paper gets more than the editor of a country paper and the engineer on a through trade ought to have more than the engineer on a local — The great men of to day were the poor and uninfluential men of twenty five to forty years ago They have risen simply because it is customary in this country to recognize merit without regard to the accident of birth or social position It is this that makes the American ambitious and accounts for the sudden rise of so many men whose ambition never would have been stirred in foreign countries where the class system exists

Stock Markets.

New York March 23 —Money on call easy 2 to 2½ closing offered 2 prime mercantile paper [illegible] sterling exchange 4 85½ for sixty days bills 4 87½ for demand The stock market to day was not only less active than yesterday but it lacked the vim and excitement that marked dealings at that time It was feverish and irregular, while the drift of prices was downward throughout most of the time Some strength was shown early in the day on buying orders given by bull cliques with higher London quotations and favorable news from the west in regard to railroad troubles Traders however again renewed their attacks upon the list and the feeble support given it was insufficient to counteract their influence and prices settled down slowly but steadily losses at one time ranging to 2 per cent Missouri Pacific and Union Pacific were the weakest stocks on the list but the latter displayed more recuperative power than Reading and its net loss for the day is not so great The close was quiet and about steady at slightly better than the lowest figures

SENATOR BLACKBURN

Kentucky's Son, Whose Answer to Senator Ingalls Has Attracted Attention.

Hon Joseph C S Blackburn, senator from Kentucky since March 4 1885, whose recent answer to one of Senator Ingalls' speeches has attracted attention, is young enough to have a brilliant future before him and old enough to have had twenty-seven years of uncommonly active public life Born late in 1838, he enlisted in the Confederate army early in the war, and in due time became the idol of the old Ashland district of Kentucky, which had previously idolized Henry Clay and John C Breckinridge Life was a very serious thing with Mr Blackburn for many years, but in the better days that have lately come to the south his native wit and talent have warmed into very active and pleasant life

There is no place where a man who can "give and take" in repartee will [illegible] be called on to "take" than in congress [illegible] Mr. Blackburn [illegible] In the beginning of [illegible] he was into the [illegible] morning and [illegible] to [illegible] SENATOR BLACKBURN.

[illegible] of a Jewish clothing merchant, of whom he had just bought the suit he had on for $18. "I found out after [illegible] that there was $8 off for [illegible] said he, "that the suit was so [illegible] that I would not go back for the difference."

"Is it American made?" asked Senator Wanamaker Miller, of New York.

"Partly so," said Blackburn

"There!" said Mr. Miller, "if you open your [illegible] on the tariff question again this winter, I will [illegible] you to stand up [illegible] exhibit your clothes as an example of the benefit of protection to American industries."

Everybody laughed, and Blackburn declared that he would not dare to make a low tariff speech till the suit was worn out.

He is a natural parliamentary leader probably the ready man in debate in the senate He is also a politician without concealments, strange as it may seem a man who in all the intricacies of a party career talks and acts with the frankness of a Kentucky boy His home is in the little town of Versailles, Woodford county, in the heart of the famous Kentucky blue grass country, a region which is thought to naturally produce fast horses, handsome women and large boned, open hearted men

AN ABLE RAILROAD MAN

Chief Engineer Fisher, Whose Death Was Recently Announced.

Charles H. Fisher was born at Lansingburg, N Y, June 5, 1835

In 1853 he went to Wisconsin and was engaged in the work of laying out the Racine and Janesville railroad. About a year afterward he returned home and received an appointment on the staff of the state engineer In 1856 he entered the service of the New York Central railroad, in the engineers department, in which he remained until the spring of 1863 In 1863 while resident engineer at Buffalo, he designed and laid out the large stock yards there In 1868 he was elected chief engineer of the newly projected Lake Ontario Shore railroad He laid out the lines upon which the road was subsequently built. The Central, however soon recalled him to its service, and in 1870 he assumed the duties of chief engineer of the road which position he held until the failure of his health compelled his retirement in 1883

CHARLES H FISHER.

His first great work was the laying of the two additional tracks from Albany to Buffalo, which was accomplished in the years 1873 and 1874 During his administration also, nearly all the old wooden bridges on the line were replaced by substantial iron structures, and the fine stations of Albany, Syracuse and Buffalo were built The last great work with which he was identified was the elevation of the road through the city of Rochester During his administration the road expended for construction more than $40,000,000
